

THE MELVIN P. KLEIN SCIENTIFIC DEVELOPMENT AWARD FUND

In honor of Melvin P. Klein, the Stanford Synchrotron Radiation Laboratory (“SSRL”) Users’ Organization Executive Committee is raising gifts for a new endowed fund to be known as The Melvin P. Klein Scientific Development Award Fund.

Gifts made to the Board of Trustees of the Leland Stanford Junior University (“the Board”), an educational institution, for this purpose may, for investment purposes, be merged with any of the general investment assets of Stanford University, but they shall be entered in the University’s books and records as an endowed fund known as The Melvin P. Klein Scientific Development Award Fund (“the Fund”). The Board shall spend so much of the Fund income and appreciation as it shall determine reasonable to support one or more awards to undergraduate or graduate students for the support of each student’s attendance at an appropriate scientific conference for the presentation of his or her research results at that conference. The amount and terms of each award, and the recipient thereof, shall be determined by such University authority as may be designated by the Board.

Donors to the Fund understand that expenditures from the Fund will be subject to the University’s infrastructure charge which applies to gifts for certain restricted purposes.

If, in the judgment of the Board, changed circumstances should at some future time render the designated use of the Fund no longer appropriate, then the Board shall use so much of the Fund income and appreciation as it shall determine reasonable to further the objects and purposes of Stanford University, giving consideration to the special interest set forth above.

Although it is expected that gifts to the Fund will significantly exceed $25,000, the minimum for establishing an endowed fund of this type, if the Fund does not receive gifts totaling $25,000 by August 31, 2006, gifts made for this purpose shall be fully expendable and may be used to support one or more awards to undergraduate or graduate students for the support of each student’s attendance at an appropriate scientific conference for the presentation of his or her research results at that conference. The amount and terms of each award, and the recipient thereof, shall be determined by such University authority as may be designated by the Board.